HELLO ELEPHANT PARADE FRIENDS!

It's with great pride that we announce Elephant Parade® Bangkok 2015.

The Elephant Parade journey started in Thailand after an encounter with a baby Asian elephant that stepped on a landmine. Her name is Mosha and we met her at the 'Friends of the Asian Elephant' Hospital in Lampang back in 2006. Mosha continues to be our icon, inspiration and is the reason why we created Elephant Parade.

Elephant Parade is very proud and excited to team up with such a great company as Minor International through Anantara and The Golden Triangle Asian Elephant Foundation. We share the same commitment and values in helping save the Asian elephant, ultimately from extinction.

We've travelled all over the world with Elephant Parade and now it feels like we are coming home, with our upcoming event in Bangkok next year.

I am sure this exposition will be our most exciting and colourful one to date!

Let's paint a brighter future and we hope you will all be part of it!

A MESSAGE FROM BILL HEINECKE

As a citizen of Thailand, I have always been passionate about helping the country's national animal and as a result I founded The Golden Triangle Asian Elephant Foundation (GTAEF) in 2006, in order to help improve the plight of Thailand's elephants. It has since been diversified to include welfare projects that incorporate broader philanthropic, cultural and direct conservation objectives.

To date, we've rescued over 40 elephants from Thailand's city streets and 20 of those are now living in a jungle environment on the grounds next to Anantara Golden Triangle in Chiang Rai with their entire mahout family. In addition to performing street rescues, the GTAEF cooperates with the Thai government and other organisations in 'bigger picture' projects.

As a company, we are always looking for like minded partners who share our true passion in saving the Asian elephant and Elephant Parade has long been known for its elephant conservation efforts in Thailand, which is why we feel this partnership is the ideal fit.

The more awareness that is raised on the plight of domestic and wild elephants in Thailand the better the chances we have for their survival. I can't think of a better way to raise awareness than bringing the largest open air art exhibition in support of Asian Elephants to Bangkok in 2015.

I look forward to seeing you there!

"Elephants need our protection. Man kills them because of money; they kill them for the ivory and then sell it. We call it by such a beautiful name, 'ivory' but it's just bone, what right do we have to kill them for a simple bone. Man also kills elephants because they need land to grow crops. The property is not theirs, it belongs to the Forestry Department and the elephant also is not theirs, so we have no right to kill them because of land issues. My design is about the truth. We need to protect these magnificent creatures. That's why I have painted the symbol of protection on my elephant. The symbol means that elephants want to live in harmony with man and pray for the day that they won't harm them and that they will one day have a better life."

Cindy Bishop

"I am so excited and honoured to be chosen to be one of the artists for the Elephant Parade! What a wonderful way to get people talking and taking action in elephant conservation. The elephant is our country's national animal and symbol, but somehow this once-revered and noble creature is now forced to beg for food on the busy and dangerous streets of the capital. I truly hope that this magnificent colourful pachyderm parade will raise the awareness and inspire us all to take more concrete steps to ensure their survival and wellbeing."

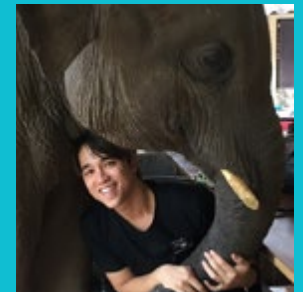

Pae Arak

"Elephants have long played an integral part in Thai history and life, yet there are issues to be addressed in order to protect them. I would like to encourage everyone to discourage any activity that threatens their welfare or habitat. Through our combined efforts, we can look forward to a future where elephants are given the respect and care they deserve as the proud symbol of Thailand."

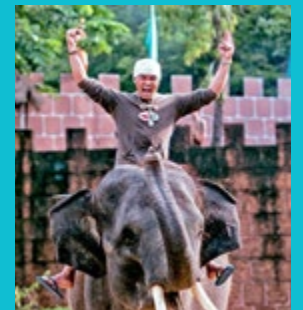

Alex Rendell

"I have a deep affection for elephants. Although their sheer size can make them appear wild and even dangerous, these gentle giants are in fact humble, sociable and so emotional that they can die from a broken heart. With our help and support it is possible to save Thailand's beloved national animals from extinction, so that future generations can have the pleasure of meeting such intelligent creatures."

Tony Jaa

"In my life, I have spent a lot of quality time with elephants. I grew up in a mahout family and started my movie career with an elephant as a co-star. So I want to thank all the people and organizations who take the time and resources to ensure the safety of these intelligent creatures in Thailand and around the world."

HOW IT ALL BEGAN

Elephant Parade was founded by father and son Marc and Mike Spits in 2006. Whilst on holiday in Thailand, Marc met a baby elephant named Mosha, who had lost her leg after stepping on a landmine. Mosha inspired Marc and Mike to create Elephant Parade.

In 2007, the first exhibition was held in Rotterdam, The Netherlands. The 'Friends of the Asian Elephant' Hospital - Mosha's home base in Lampang, was one of the first organizations to receive contributions generated by Elephant Parade and structurally continues to receive funds for taking care of Mosha.

Mosha was the first baby elephant in the world to receive a prosthetic leg.

A WORLDWIDE SUCCESS

More than 800 artists have participated and over 1000 elephants have been created; each an original piece of art.

Amongst some of our artists and supporters are Jack Vettriano, Ronald Ventura, Paul Smith, His Royal Highness Prince Consort of Denmark, Katy Perry, Diane von Furstenberg, Sarah - Duchess of York, Karim Rashid, Leona Lewis...

The top price for an original elephant statue at an Elephant Parade auction fetched £155,000. This masterpiece was created by artist Jack Vettriano for the 2010 London Elephant Parade.

ANANTARA HOTELS, RESORTS & SPAS

Presenting Partner of Elephant Parade Bangkok

For hundreds of years throughout Thailand, people would leave a jar of water outside their house to provide refreshment and extend a welcome to the passing traveller. Anantara is taken from an ancient Sanskrit word that means 'without end', symbolising this sharing of water and the heartfelt hospitality that lies at the core of every Anantara experience.

From lush jungles to pristine beaches and legendary deserts to cosmopolitan cities, Anantara currently boasts over 30 stunning properties located in Thailand, the Maldives, Indonesia, Vietnam, China, Cambodia, Mozambique and the United Arab Emirates, with future properties to open in Mozambique, China, Sri Lanka, Mauritius, Laos, Qatar and Oman.

THE GOLDEN TRIANGLE ASIAN ELEPHANT FOUNDATION

The Golden Triangle Asian Elephant Foundation (GTAEF), was set up in 2006 to improve the plight of Thailand's elephants, and has since been diversified to include welfare projects that incorporate broader philanthropic and cultural objectives with unprecedented success.

Currently 25 elephants that have been rescued from Thailand's city streets, accompanied by their entire mahout family, are provided with a place to rest and grow. English lessons are arranged for the mahouts and their wives, education is made available for their children, and a silk worm business provides the wives with 100% of the profits made from the sales of their wares at the resort boutique.

In addition to performing street rescues the GTAEF cooperates with the Thai Government and other organisations in projects including supporting scientific research and clinics using elephants as Assistant Therapists for children living with autism; donating equipment and vehicles to Government elephants hospitals in Lampang & Krabi; sending their team of expert vets to help elephants throughout Thailand, Indonesia, Myanmar, Cambodia & Laos; developing scientific Positive Reinforcement Training techniques for elephants; reducing Human Elephant Conflict in Thai National Parks and improving the education given to the next generation of Thai mahouts.

The GTAEF have also built the world's only research facility dedicated to scientifically researching elephant intelligence and behaviour. Along with their parent company, Minor International, & working through international partners and the Cambodian Government GTAEF has, since 2013, funded the protection of an 18,000 hectare elephant corridor of standing forest in the Cardamom Mountains - since protection the wildlife has become visible and wild elephants started using the forest again.

The Golden Triangle Asian Elephant Foundation is located at and supported by the Anantara Golden Triangle and Four Seasons Golden Triangle.
